

Peladon Software Signs Agreement with Compuscan to Resell DocXP™ Product Suite

SAN DIEGO, Calif., April 24, 2007 – Peladon Software, a pioneering developer of automated capture and document processing solutions, today announced the completion of a reseller partnership agreement with Compuscan Imaging Solutions, Inc., a leading systems integrator and reseller of imaging, automated data capture and document management solutions. Compuscan will purchase and resell licenses of the company's DocXP™ software solution.

Compuscan's Ubiquati™ document management solution is the perfect complement to Peladon's DocXP™ data capture software. Ubiquati can take input from Peladon's automated data capture application and provide customers with the ability to store, archive, search and retrieve their data.

"We want to provide our customers with one of the most accurate data capture and document processing programs available, which is why we chose Peladon's DocXP™," said Sony Baca, president and CEO of Compuscan. "With DocXP™, we have a complete solution to offer our large clients that provides automated data capture and document management," added Baca.

"Compuscan's document management solution is well designed, which means the integration of DocXP™ will be seamless. Their large clients can take full advantage of our unique Document Classification and Data Extraction technology," said Noel Flynn, Chief Operating Officer of Peladon Software. "Our approach is to offer the most advanced and full-featured document processing software to our partners, giving their customers more accuracy, greater efficiency and reduced costs," added Flynn.
